We're here to help you meet all your accounting and financial reporting requirements.

As the president of Blythe Global Advisors, Marc Blythe brings more than 23 years' experience advising companies of all sizes on their accounting and financial reporting requirements. During that time, he has helped mature companies solve complex business transactions and emerging companies upgrade their accounting competency. Marc has extensive experience in SEC filings, public offerings, restructurings, recapitalizations, and mergers and acquisitions. His areas of expertise include revenue recognition, equity compensation, mergers and acquisitions/purchase accounting, restructurings/impairments, consolidations, derivatives and debt.

Prior to forming Blythe Global Advisors, Marc was an audit partner at Ernst & Young. At the firm's national office, he designed and implemented the firm's global audit approach and various quality control processes as well as created industry-specific tools, templates and knowledge bases that are used worldwide by E&Y executives. For several years, he ran the education and quality control processes for the Orange County office. He also served as an assurance and advisory business services partner for the firm's Southern California area where he worked closely with market leaders in the technology, consumer products, health science, and software and semiconductor industries. In addition to advising his portfolio of clients, Marc was an independent review partner or SEC review partner for many of the firm's larger clients. A recognized technical expert, he was a member of E&Y's software and semiconductor industry sector networks.

Marc is an active member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants; the California Society of Certified Public Accountants; OCTANE (the leading organization for Southern California's technology and biomedical industries); the Association for Corporate Growth, Inc.; the American Evaluation Association; Financial Executives International; the Financial Consulting Group; and the Orange County Venture Group (OCVG).
